Fire trucks from the Garrison Volunteer Fire Department cross the Blue Bridge a final time before the structure was closed for a replacement project. Safety concerns are paramount concerning traffic detours while the bridge is closed.

Safety a top concern during bridge replacement

By Dennis K. Brown
With the closing of the 87-year-old Blue Bridge at Garrison last week to begin a $4.4 million state replacement project, officials are concerned about safety in detouring traffic around the project area. Judge Executive Todd Ruckel says he has been in contact with state transportation officials about the detours around the project area and has expressed his safety concerns with the added traffic on Ky. Rt. 1306 and congestion at the intersection of the AA Highway and Ky. Rt. 1306 (Kinney Road).

The bridge closed Wednesday morning, March 15, so crews could prepare the structure for demolition. New bridge construction, including concrete piers and other work, will begin soon. Installation of steel beams and pouring the bridge's concrete surface are slated for summer and fall. The new bridge is scheduled to open to traffic by November 15, with a final project completion date of April 30, 2018, according to Allen Blair, Public Information Officer for District Nine DOT.

Blair said the old 400-foot, riveted steel truss bridge, which carried an average of 3,000 vehicles a day on Ky. Rt. 8 across Kinniconick Creek near its confluence with the Ohio River, was built in 1930. "It has reached the end of its life span and needs replaced," Blair said in announcing the project. During the bridge closure, Ky. Rt. 8 traffic is being rerouted using Ky. Rt. 1306 (Kinney Road), the AA Highway, and Ky. Rt. 3311 (Montgomery Road) nearby. The detour is marked with signage. Blair said commercial truck traffic into Garrison should not use the Kinney Road/Montgomery Road detour and should instead utilize Ky. Rt. 8 from Vanceburg/Black Oak when traveling into Garrison. Blair said engineers are monitoring the situation. Please see page 12

County to apply for dispatch upgrades

By Dennis K. Brown
Members of Lewis County Fiscal Court approved applying for a grant that would pay the cost of upgrading and modernizing the E-911 dispatch center. E-911 Director Mike Sparks said the grant, if approved, would pay 100 percent of the cost of upgrading the center's outdated computer-aided dispatch (CAD) system. Sparks said the upgrade would allow the local system to integrate with the National Crime Information Center (NCIC) which would speed up and simplify the tasks of dispatchers and local law enforcement. "Right now our dispatchers have to contact a KSP dispatcher to get information requested by local officers," Sparks said. "By upgrading the system we will be able to immediately access that information directly from our consoles," he told magistrates. Judge Executive Todd Ruckel will apply for the grant on behalf of the county through the Commercial Mobile Radio Service (CMRS) Board. The CMRS Board collects a 70-cent monthly fee from most cell phone users and distributes a portion of that funding as grants to local dispatch centers in the state. In an unrelated matter, Magistrates agreed moving two part-time dispatchers at the E-911 center to flexible full-time positions to allow for more efficient staffing at the facility. Magistrates approved a change of position for the road department which will allow for the move of an operator the the position of mechanic. Ruckel said the change will open a position for an operator and the employee who moves into the mechanic's position will serve in a probationary period for six months. Magistrates approved moving a detention center employee from part-time to full-time status and acknowledged the receipt of a tentative budget for the detention center. Please see page 6

Two charged with trafficking

By Dennis K. Brown
Two Garrison residents have been charged with trafficking in a controlled substance after pills, cash, and other items were allegedly found in their vehicle. Sheriff Johnny Bivens said he observed a suspicious vehicle Thursday night in an area near the intersection of the AA Highway and Ky. Rt. 1306 (Kinney Road) at Garrison. He said a passenger in the 2009 Hyundai exited the auto multiple times and opened the trunk of the vehicle. Deputy Eric Poynter approached the passenger and during a conversation with the passenger Poynter saw a set of weight scales with a white powdery substance inside the vehicle, Bivens said. Consent was given for Poynter and Bivens to search the vehicle and they found 49 white pills, a crystal substance in a plastic bag, a large sum of cash, and some other items. Bivens said the pills are thought to be Xanax, a controlled substance prescribed as a sedative. He added the crystal substance is believed to be methamphetamine and said the weight of the substance was about 10 grams. Bivens said Michael L. Byar and Vanessa R. Osborne, both 38, of Garrison. Please see page 6

Plant Board briefed on storm damage

By Dennis K. Brown
Members of the Vanceburg Electric Plant Board met in regular session last week and learned that two package wastewater treatment plants in the Meadowbrook area were washed out during heavy rains on March 1. Superintendent Bill Tom Stone said workers spent several days getting the plants functioning again and made repairs to the adjacent creek bed to help prevent the plants from being exposed to more damage from high water.

Stone also updated board members on progress being made to prepare for the planned installation of high speed internet lines. "Our electric department has been performing the make-ready requirements for the high speed internet sent to us by the utility coordinator for the Black and Veatch Corporation," Stone said. The cost for the work to prepare for the attachments will be charged back to the project. The work will include moving wires, lights and replacing some poles," he added. Stone said he believes the local part of the project will begin in the fall of 2017 or spring of 2018. "We hope to have our part completed by the end of April," he said. Black and Veatch is the engineering company working as part of a team of contractors that is implementing the statewide project within the next two years. Black and Veatch is working to determine fiber placement, working with utility and telecommunication companies and coordinating work permits along the more than 3,000-mile network of fiber. In December 2014, the Commonwealth of Kentucky announced it entered into a public-private partnership to carry out a $250 million to $300 million project that will de-

Board of Ed amends calendar

Last day of school for students will be May 19
By Dennis K. Brown
The last day of classes for students attending Lewis County Schools will be Friday, May 19 unless weather or other circumstances results in the cancellation of additional days. With only four days missed so far this school year, the recommendation to schedule the last day was approved by members of the Board of Education during a regular meeting last week. Superintendent Jamie Weddington said if no additional days are missed then graduation exercises could be held May 19 or 20. That date will be decided later. The days for Spring Break will remain as April 14 and 17. Staff will work a full day on May 22 and the closing day will be May 23. Weddington said weather could still result in some cancellations and that could change the last day. In other business last week, board members heard staff reports from Garrison Elementary Principal Dale McDowell and Laurel Elementary Principal Chad Kidwell.

Both principals reviewed scores for their respective schools and outlined goals for their staff and students. Each of the principals also explained steps they are taking to improve test scores. "Mr. McDowell and Mr. Kidwell both are excellent administrators," Weddington said. "They show up at work every day and they work hard to provide the

No one hurt in AA crash at Tollesboro

By Dennis K. Brown
No one was hurt in a two vehicle accident Saturday night at the intersection of Ky. Rt. 57 and the AA Highway at Tollesboro. Deputy Eric Poynter said the accident happened about 10:00 p.m. Saturday when a 2011 Toyota Camry, operated by Andrew Womack, 43, of Flemingsburg, was traveling south on Ky. Rt. 57 and crossing the AA Highway at the intersection. Poynter said a 2002 Honda Accord EX, operated by Patrick Sharp, 26, of Brooksville, was traveling east on the AA Highway and the vehicles collided at the intersection with the Toyota coming to rest on the southeast corner of the intersection and the Honda coming to a stop in the northbound lane of Ky. Rt. 57 at the intersection. Poynter said Womack reportedly had the right-of-way and was proceeding through the intersection on a green light. He said there were no injuries reported although both vehicles sustained extensive damage. Neither driver was hurt, Poynter said, adding that a passenger in the Honda, Adryanna Cottingham, 25, of Vanceburg, was also uninjured. Poynter is continuing the investigation into the accident. He was assisted at the scene by Tollesboro Fire and Rescue, Portsmouth Ambulance, and McCann Towing.

Hall of Fame Coach Gary Kidwell

This past week I have been covering the Boys' State Basketball Tournament at Rupp Arena in Lexington. It is a very exciting venue with the new improvements at Rupp Arena. We are one of the few states that don't have the class system in basketball. People attend this event from all over the world and the United States to see "the greatest show in basketball." This year we had Scott County from Georgetown, the Pulaski County team from Somerset, the Bowling Green High School from Bowling Green, Graves County from the western most part of the state near Mayfield, Scott High from Taylor Mill, Northern Kentucky, Cooper High School from Union, Harlan County from Baxter, Pikeville High School from Pikeville, Perry County Central from Hazard, Elliott County from Sandy Hook, Collins from Shelbyville, Meade County from Brandenburg, Ballard from Louisville, Taylor County from Campbellsville, Fern Creek from Louisville, and Hopkinsville from Hopkinsville.

As of Friday night, as I write the column, these four teams remain in the tourney: Cooper High School, Scott High, Fern Creek, and Bowling Green. One of these teams will be crowned "State Champs" on Sunday.

MCTC receives donation from the International Paper Foundation for Career Craze Program

Herald Report
Maysville Community and Technical College (MCTC) has offered the Career Craze summer camp to 6th - 8th graders for nearly a decade. The camp exposes students to exciting careers and opportunities that lead to good paying jobs, but may not be the usual careers students consider. Some of the career tracks are manufacturing, engineering, energy, skilled trades, public service, forestry, transportation and entrepreneurship. During the camp, each career track is filled with "hands-on" activities including field trips, short guest speakers, and other experiences.

This year, thanks to a generous donation from International Paper, the camp will duce their environmental impact. Other "green" activities will be built into the program such as repurposing and recycling. Instead of giving students a camp T-shirt, students will bring old T-shirts and make them into something new. International Paper representatives will teach students how to make new paper from old paper.

"We greatly appreciate the generosity of the International Paper Foundation and the local IP management team for supporting the project," said Barb Campbell, MCTC's Workforce Solutions chief officer. "These additional funds will allow us to provide an even more robust Career Craze experience for these young people."

This year's Career Craze takes place in June on the Maysville campus of MCTC. For more information on the Career Craze program, contact Workforce Solutions at 606-759-7141, ext. 66120.

An Encouraging Word

By Pastor of Vanceburg Christian Church, Tom Cox

Love Comes First

Love is an important topic in the Bible. There we read that God is a loving God. It tells us that the greatest commandments are about love – love God and love your neighbor (Matthew 22:37-40). When we read about the fruit, or the evidence, of the Holy Spirit in the life of a Christian, love is at the top of the list (Galatians 5:22).

When Jesus walked this earth, he did so in love. People flocked around him because they knew that he truly cared for them. Even “sinners” enjoyed being in the presence of Jesus. He did not condone their sin; that is not what love does. His offer of grace did not mean that people were given a license to sin.

Jesus often addressed sin in people’s lives, but look at how he did it. He loved them first.

Zaccheus was despised by many because of his chosen occupation as a tax collector. Tax collectors were notorious for cheating people in order to make themselves wealthy. When Jesus stopped to have a conversation with Zaccheus, some in the crowd may have thought, “Here it comes! Jesus is really going to give this guy a piece of his mind! Zaccheus is finally going to get what is coming to him!” But Jesus didn’t start with condemnation; he started with love. He invited himself over to Zaccheus’ house for dinner. We don’t know the details of the dinner conversation, but it appears that Jesus talked about repentance, for the formerly greedy tax collector promised to give half of his possessions to the poor and pay back anyone he had cheated four times the amount he had taken from them (Luke 19:1-10).

Another time Jesus led with love in his interaction with a sinner is found in John 8:1-11. The religious leaders, trying to trap Jesus, brought to him a woman who was caught in adultery. They reminded him that the Old Testament called for her to be stoned to death. What would Jesus say should be done to her? Instead of condemnation, Jesus offered her love and mercy. Only after he assured her of his love did he command her to go and leave her life of sin. Once again, Jesus led with love.

I wish I could say that I always led with love in my interactions with people, but I must confess that I don’t have this down pat yet. Sometimes I lead with judgment and condemnation, and that derails any chance I have at showing people the love of Christ.

For example, it really irritates me when someone puts vulgar language on social media. My knee-jerk reaction is to call them out for their vulgarity. But I need to find a way to do this in a loving way. I need to start with love.

I recently had a conversation with a young lady about her foul language on Facebook. It did not go well. I won the argument, but lost the ability to influence her. Because I started the conversation by being judgmental, she cut off our contact.

Jesus doesn’t call us to win arguments; he calls us to win people. We don’t win people unless they know we love them. They don’t care how much we know until they know how much we care.

I hope to become better at starting with love. How about you?

Life Verses

When I was young I was surprised when our Pastor, Bro. Tom Nix, told the church that he had two life verses. Since the pastor of the Lancaster Baptist Church, Lancaster, KY had made such an impression on my fledgling life I paid attention.

Bro. Nix then quoted Proverbs 3:5-6, “Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge Him, and He shall direct thy paths.”

At that time I had not been called to preach, but for some reason I went home and for several days analyzed those verses. I asked myself, “Why did Bro. Nix choose those verses?” As a result of that analysis, I determined to make that text my life verses, too. They have been an anchor for me for all this time.

First, the greatest thing any person can do for themselves is to “Trust in the Lord” with all their heart. Trust placed anywhere else may fail you, but trust in Him Who never fails just simply cannot go wrong. Because of those verses I can give this testimony. Although I have often failed the Lord He has never failed me. And I can add to that, “I have found God at His best when I was at my worst.”

Second, faith in God is a “heart” thing. According to Romans 10:9 a person must “believe in thine heart that God hath raised Him (Christ) from the dead” in order to be saved. Solomon wrote, “Keep the heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life.” (Proverbs 4:23) Christ pointed out the importance of the heart in matters of faith when He said, “But those things which proceed out of the mouth come forth from the heart; and they defile the man. For out of the heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, blasphemies: These are the things which defile a man...” (Matthew 15:18-20). So we must trust in the Lord with all our hearts. That will keep us from all those evil sins.

Third, we cannot lean unto our own understanding because it is so limited and prone to error. We should develop the habit of leaning on Him who is omniscient and never makes a mistake.

Fourth, we should acknowledge God in all our ways. After all, God is the centerpiece of our existence through our Lord Jesus Christ. He should guide us in all our ways, and when we follow Him we will always be on the right road.

And lastly, when the Lord directs our paths we will never go wrong and may be surprised where He leads us. That has been true for countless thousands. For instance, my older brother, Sam, never dreamed that one day he would live in Italy and pastor a church there, but he did. Although he has retired from the pastoral ministry he and his family still live in the beautiful land of Italy.

And when God directs our paths we know where we are going. In the end we will go to heaven to a mansion prepared for us in a city with streets of gold, gates of pearl and foundations of precious stones, but best of all we will go where Jesus is and be with Him forever.

Proverbs 3:5-6 are my life verses. They may not be for you, but don’t despair. The Bible is full of great texts that would be great for that purpose. I hope you’ll find your own life verses and then live by them.

A Gift From God

Text Romans 6:23... For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.

In our text we read of the most precious of all gifts! The gift of eternal life! This gift of eternal life is offered to all. But for the most part mankind will choose the alternative... which is as our text declares... Death! This is spoken of in Revelation 21:8... But the fearful, and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone: which is the second death. What will it be for you? Take of the gift of eternal life! Everlasting life! Like the woman at the well of John 4:14... But whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of waters springing up into everlasting life. You, the reader of this article today, have you received the gift of eternal, everlasting life? If not, we encourage you to do so today!

Our awesome God, Jehovah God, the all powerful, all sovereign, one and only true God is the only God who can bestow such a gift! James 1:17... Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning. In John 3:16 we read... For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life.

Just as natural parents desire to give precious gifts to their children how much more shall your Father in heaven give good things to them that ask him? (Matthew 7:11) What “better gift”... What “good gift” could ever be as meaningful as the gift of eternal life.

Dwell on the following question for a moment... Can anyone receive this free gift? In Matthew 28:18-20... And Jesus came and spake unto them saying, All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth. Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. Amen. The disciples (as are we to do the same) were commanded to take the gospel to all mankind!

Acts 2:21... And it shall come to pass that whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be saved. Then in Romans 10:13... For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved.

Then we read in Revelation 22:17... And the Spirit and the bride say, Come. And let him that is athirst come. And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely. So, yes, anyone can come to Christ, but the sad reality is stated in John 6:37-44. Anyone can “but of themselves” they will not come! The burden is on man... on you... Jesus says come! Why wouldn’t you receive the gift of eternal life as it’s offered to you? Is it pride, love of sin, worldly living and values, why? What if you gain the whole world and lose your soul we read in Mark 8:36.

Today... Today... We would encourage you to repent of your sins, believe the message of the Gospel according to the scriptures and be saved today. Receive the most precious of gifts... Eternal life... The gift of God!

For those who have received this “unspeakable, undescribable, undeniably, the most “Precious Gift” we encourage you to share the gospel with as many as you possibly can, so they too can have within their souls the blessed, sure, steadfast hope of all the redeemed. Those purchased by the blood of the Savior!

Until next time may Almighty God bless you richly.

Meditate on These Thoughts

By Joe Schieber

Where Is God?

Many ask where is God, not realizing it is not where God is, but where we are.

God created this earth, the heavens, the stars, planets, and all is sustained or held in place by God’s power.

We have God our creator, Jesus our Messiah and Redeemer, and the Holy Spirit who empower us.

Read John 15. Are you abiding in Jesus and Jesus in you? Have you realized you can do nothing without Jesus?

Do you know when you rely on yourself or others you are actually pushing God away from you?

The truth can only come through Jesus Christ. John 14:6.

The truth will set you free and whom the Son sets free is free indeed. John 8:31-59

Without Jesus in your life you have no lasting love, joy, peace, gentleness, kindness, patience or spiritual endurance, faith, meekness or God’s power under control, and temperance or sound mind.

People constantly expect God to stop or prevent catastrophes on this earth without understanding who God is and what He can do.

We blame God when lives are cut short or there is an injustice done against us; only calling on God to help us through it, but having no relationship with God before or after our ordeals.

We don’t live a life dependent on God and His promise in His Word because we are wanting everything now.

We want God only on our terms, fitting the work of God in at our convenience.

Then we wonder why our prayers are not answered.

Quit asking where God is and take a look where you are. What kind of attitude do you have towards others? Do you love everyone?

Have you allowed the love of God to be shed abroad in your hearts? Romans 5:5.

Are you born again? Are you filled with the Holy Spirit? Is your sinful nature gone or are you still knowingly sinning?

Are you studying God’s word and meditating on it more than social media? How can you expect God to do 100 percent what you want Him to do as you only spend a short amount of time hearing from God?

Do you know if God is speaking to you? God speaks to me every day, through His word as I study, through prayer, through praise and worshipping God at different times during each day.

When we don’t see God move upon our prayers, it may be that we have either slowed or stopped the hand of God by what we are saying and doing.

Find scriptures which deal with your situation right now and speak these scriptures as often as you can each day.

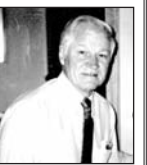

I have had physical problems with my feet and knees, but instead of acknowledging the pain, I just thank the Lord for healing and restoring and rebuilding where there is damage. I thank God daily that I have been made whole.

That is what salvation means. To be saved is to be made whole: no more sin, no sickness, no disease, no depression or low self-esteem, and anything else that is in this world but is not of God.

Are you trusting in God or in man? We are the light of the world. Study what exactly the light is and what it does. Who you are in Christ Jesus determines where God is.

Managing frost damage in Kentucky's Alfalfa Stands
Chris Teutsch, Jimmy Henning, Ray Smith, and Tom Keene, University of Kentucky

First, it is important to understand that determining the temperature that alfalfa stands were exposed to during a frost event is less than exact science. Air temperature reported by local news stations likely use data logged at a weather station that was installed according to National Weather Service guidelines. These guidelines state that sensors should be installed on level terrain, away from paved or concrete surfaces and upright structures, four to six feet above the soil surface, and in a radiation shield. Most pastures and hayfields do not meet these criteria. In fact, most alfalfa plants never reach a height of four to six feet. In contrast, the height of alfalfa exposed to spring frosts is likely to be in the six to 10 inch range. In addition, conditions at the soil surface in a vegetated field can be quite different compared to the air temperature at five feet above the soil. Couple all this with variations in topography and you can have many "microclimates" within a single field.

In the real world there is considerable variability in everything that we work with. So please interpret the following information with the realization that the temperatures that alfalfa plants were exposed to within a single field can vary greatly. In the remainder of this article we will discuss the impact of light, moderate, and heavy frost on spring growth of alfalfa stands in the Commonwealth.

Established Alfalfa Stands

Light Frost: temperatures that the alfalfa plant experienced were in the range of 27 to 31° F. Alfalfa leaves may be impacted when temperatures drop below 28° F. This will present itself as the loss of some trifoliate leaves and twisting of stem ends near the top of the canopy. In this temperature range, alfalfa buds and growing points will not likely be damaged and will continue to grow as normal. Alfalfa will normally outgrow this damage and no changes in management practices are warranted.

Moderate frost: temperatures that the alfalfa plant experienced were in the range of 26 to 27° F. Freezing causes significant injury in the terminal growing point near the end of the stem, however the entire stem is not killed. Axillary buds at each leaf position lower on the stem and crown buds will begin to develop into new stems. Stems lower in the canopy that were not impacted by the frost will continue to grow normally. The net result is a mixture of mature and vegetative growth that can make harvest decisions difficult. If high quality forage is the number one priority, then harvest based on the maturity of the undamaged stems. If a lower feed quality can be tolerated, then you may want to delay harvest for a week or so to allow maximum accumulation of carbohydrates in the taproot. It is important to avoid cutting moderately frosted alfalfa early. This decreases both yield and regrowth rate of the stand due to the stress of early cutting.

Severe frost: temperatures that the alfalfa plant experienced were below 26° F. Stems that were growing at the time of the frost will not regrow. Regrowth will come from crown buds at the base of the plant. Alfalfa stands with sufficient growth to justify harvest should be cut immediately after the severe frost. This will help to maintain forage quality and allow regrowth to occur from the crown buds. If stands do not have enough growth to warrant harvest, frost damaged plant material can be left in place.

However, leaving damaged or killed plant material in place may delay regrowth. If alfalfa fields are fenced, frost damaged plants could be grazed off. However, grazing should be carefully managed to reduce the chance of bloat.

Waiting for frosted alfalfa to begin to dry will significantly reduce the chances of bloat. Animals should never be turned into alfalfa hungry and should have free access to a high quality dry hay at all times. Flash grazing damaged stands with a high livestock density for a short period of time is highly recommended. Since severe frost has the same effect on the alfalfa plant as early harvest, regrowth will likely be slower. If possible delay the second harvest a week or so to allow the plant to recover its stored carbohydrates.

New Alfalfa Seedlings

Immediately after emergence, alfalfa seedlings have fair to good tolerance to cold injury. However, once they reach the second trifoliate leaf stage, tolerance to cold injury decreases markedly. Four or more hours of exposure to 26° F can kill seedlings at this growth stage. Before reseeding, the extent of damage in new stands should be assessed. Normally alfalfa is seeded at rates much higher than the final stand density needed for optimal yields. This results in a high initial number of seedlings per unit area. During establishment and the first growing season alfalfa stands self-thin.

The ideal stand density at the end of the first production year is 12-20 plants per square foot. If this number of healthy seedling per square foot is present following frost damage, then no reseeding is needed. If stands do not consistently have 12-20 healthy plants per square foot, then thickening stands with a no-till seeding may be the best option. In most cases, seeding rates in the range of 10-12 lb/A should be sufficient for thickening frost damaged stands.

we would soon be back in school at the red-brick building at the western end of Second Street. But then came heavy rains, and we had the highest water since 1937. According to reports, my present house escaped with about one inch to go. My parents' home (next to the Court House) was a dry island, but with johnboats going up and down Second Street. Young Doctor Bertram was in one boat, advising everyone to boil the city water – which (I believe) at that time came from wells below the school yard on West Second. This was the mineral-laden water which coated so many cooking pans with white carbonates! But the water itself may have been healthful: I have read that mineral-laden water is better for the heart than essentially pure water. Whatever the situation, our water supply today will be an excellent resource for us in a time of possible national emergency.

re-institute ferry service here during the closure of the U.S. Grant Bridge at Portsmouth in the early 1980s. My father bought one share of the stock, I believe; but things went slowly, and the repaired bridge at Portsmouth was open again before the ferry service could be commenced. [Reports were that the bridge inspectors were very disturbed by what they saw within the metal tubes (which contained the cables), and they lost no time in closing the bridge. My friend Don Bowman said that he drove the last vehicle to use the bridge before closing.

It is a serious matter to realize that so many bridges (and other parts of the infrastructure of our nation) are in very bad condition. Estimates are that it would take $1 Trillion to put them all back in shape. President Trump has said that he will order the work started; we hope so.

old KY 10 to Maysville. That road eastward to Garrison and Quincy was gravel, and there were very bad places caused by the 1937 Flood. For example, the Kinniconick bridge at Garrison was rendered unusable for some time because the massive fills on both sides of the bridge had been partially washed away. Most people going to Portsmouth crossed the River on Earl Kenyon's ferry boat and went up the Ohio side. I remember one occasion when my mother took my grandmother and me along to the "big city" – and Portsmouth really was thriving even in the Depression years. It was during the winter, with short daylight hours. There were delays in getting our start back, and so it was quite dark when we took the little lane out of Sandy Springs to the Ohio-side ferry landing. Alas! The ferry was on the Kentucky side, quite dark, and closed down for the day! So a call was made to my father that we were going to be late in returning; and back to Portsmouth we went, to go back on the Kentucky side. That was quite a trip! At Garrison we had to cross Kinniconick on a temporary wooden bridge upstream from the present one. We arrived home safely, but I understood why people usually traveled on the Ohio side!

Note that the map is in error when it shows Route 59 paved south of Vanceburg to Kinniconick. I remember that that road was still dirt – maybe some gravel – during my high-school years. Inquiries of people who live along that road put its paving about 1950.

Going from Tollesboro to Flemingsburg, it was gravel all the way to Mt. Carmel. I don't know how much of this map will be printed in the paper, but it can be seen that towns/cities like Maysville, Flemingsburg, and Cynthiana were "hubs," with the old State and Federal highways radiating out from them. Vanceburg could not be such a hub because the River blocked any road to the north. We were a bit isolated at the time of this map, although we did have rail connections east and west, and up until the 1930s there were packet boats calling.

Getting up is somewhat more difficult, because one is opposing gravity! No doubt people have seen S.C. making this attempt by lurching forward in the seat several times. A few of these lurches may have been to get up the "courage" to go on; but others were meant to develop momentum – which, combined with an arm-push on a support or on the cane, would get me past the vulnerable half-way point and onto my feet! Walking (in short steps) is easier than arising – and a cane gives added assurance.

Momentum (in Physics) is mass times velocity (mv); but S.C. has little mass above the belt, and there's not much velocity to be gained from a sitting position. But we get along, and are grateful to the Lord for our ability to do this.

The knee joint is very, very complex. To enable a person to get up and down, a muscle must pull or relax (pulley fashion) across that joint. Have my muscles deteriorated with age? I think not, so much as that friction is at work across the bones. Friction can be a big factor; but I have friends in their 90s who do not have this problem. Well, we'll do the best we can as long as we can.

Such a skill comes after years of practice, I know; but it's still an amazing performance on the part of one's body. And we should nourish those muscles by taking in the right kinds of foods, with the right kinds of vitamins and minerals. Some athletes do this; perhaps some do not.

Anyway, we're into the basketball season, and we'll be seeing some amazing performances by these muscles!

Legislative Update

State Representative Rocky Adkins

The 2017 session is coming down to the wire, with major legislation still left to consider on two "concurrency" days this week. By the time you read this, our schedule will have called for us to recess until March 29 and 30, when we will reconvene for our final two days to review any gubernatorial vetoes.

During "concurrency," both the House and Senate will try to reach agreement on amendments to bills that have been adopted by the other chamber. On the House floor Tuesday, I offered my deep concerns with Senate Bill 153, the performance-based funding bill for Kentucky's colleges and universities. The House approved this far-reaching and potentially damaging legislation without the time-honored tradition of allowing it to flow through the normal budgetary process established for measures of this magnitude in even-numbered years.

Regional institutions like our own Morehead State University (MSU) will now be faced to compete for the same pool of money against all other state universities. The service region of MSU is experiencing its own special challenges in producing a high number of college degrees because of the loss of population and a struggling economy due to the downturn in the coal industry. Because of these reasons, I voted "no" on House Bill 153. There are, however, a few safeguards in the bill that will allow us to come back and review these changes in three years. In the days and weeks ahead, I will be monitoring this funding situation closely to ensure MSU's special mission is protected.

In House action late last week, we took a step closer toward moving Kentucky into compliance with tougher federal security standards by approving legislation that would create "voluntary travel ID" cards - an enhanced driver's license that could be used to board airplanes and enter certain federal facilities, including military facilities like Fort Knox and Fort Campbell.

On March 7, the House approved House Bill 410, which allows individuals to receive the optional travel ID for $5 more than the standard drivers' license by presenting a copy of their birth certificate and Social Security card. Under the legislation, licenses, permits and IDs - both enhanced and standard - would be issued by the state Transportation Cabinet instead of the state Office of the Circuit Court Clerk, as they are now. These new licenses and IDs would be renewed for eight years instead of the current four.

Kentucky is one of five states that have not met requirements of a 2005 federal law requiring enhanced security features for driver's licenses following the 9/11 terrorist attacks. Kentucky came close to resolving this issue during the 2016 session, when both the House and Senate agreed to similar legislation, but the bill was vetoed by Gov. Bevin. HB 410 now goes to the Senate for its consideration.

On March 8, the Houses voted 77-18 to provide school districts with more flexibility in setting school calendars. Under Senate Bill 50, districts could begin using the "variable instructional year" for the 2018-2019 school year if their first day of instruction is on or after the Monday closest to August 26. Many school districts in Kentucky start in early August, and supporters of the bill say it will allow families to have more vacation time and support Kentucky's tourism industry.

The legislation is designed to be voluntary, but there was some concern expressed that those schools that do opt for a later start date would either have to extend their school day or continue meeting into the month of June because of state requirements for instructional hours. The legislation now heads to the governor's office for his consideration.

Other legislation approved the House this week included:

- Senate Bill 218, an industrial hemp bill designed to improve the production program first established in Kentucky in 2013 that authorized industrial hemp research programs at the state level. State Agriculture Commissioner Ryan Quarles said this year marks Kentucky's largest industrial hemp crop under the program, with over 12,000 acres approved for production. The bill was sent to the Governor on March 8 after passing the House by a vote of 88-3 on Tuesday.

- HB 323 would allow anyone who was a Kentucky resident when they enlisted for active duty in the U.S. Armed Forces or Reserves or the National Guard to pay the Kentucky resident rate for Kentucky hunting and fishing licenses and permits. HB 323 passed the House on a 92-0 vote on Monday and is now awaiting action in the Senate.

Before leaving Frankfort last week, I joined my colleagues in the House Minority in expressing alarm regarding Senate amendments proposed to a House bill that would remove Kentucky's Attorney General as the state's chief law officer and give the governor "exclusive authority" to represent the state in most legal matters.

The bill goes against our constitutional requirements for a separation of power among the three branches of government. The legislation is still being modified as we speak and I am hopeful it will be defeated in its current form.

City of Vanceburg signs agreement to provide membership to residents

Herald Report

City of Vanceburg officials have entered into an agreement with AirMedCare Network, providing their residents peace of mind in the event of a medical emergency with multi-county membership coverage.

Air Evac Lifeteam is a participating provider in the AirMedCare Network, the largest air ambulance membership network in the United States. AirMedCare Network participating providers include more than 260 air medical bases across 32 states, providing air ambulance services for residents who suffer a life- or limb-threatening illness or injury.

In the event an insured Vanceburg resident is flown by Air Evac Lifeteam or any AirMedCare Network participating provider for a life- or limb-threatening emergency from within Lewis or Mason counties in Kentucky, or Scioto County, Ohio, that AMCN-participating air medical service will work with your benefits provider to secure payment for the flight.

Whatever the patient's benefits provider pays is considered payment in full. Even with medical insurance, an air medical transport may leave patients and their families with unexpected out-of-pocket expenses.

If the resident transported is uninsured at the time of transport, Air Evac Lifeteam will bill the covered person at the "Medicare Allowable Rate" for the transport.

Vanceburg residents may also take advantage of upgrading to a full AirMedCare Network membership at a discounted rate to gain full coverage with no pickup location or insurance coverage restrictions.

For questions about membership in the AirMedCare Network program, please call 800-793-0010 or visit www.airmedcarenetwork.com. Locally, AirMedCare Network Membership Manager Missy McElroy may be reached at 937-528-9176 or Melissa.McElroy@airmed-

Senate Session Review

Senator Steve West, 27th District

Early mornings turned to late nights and spirited debate echoed through the House and Senate chambers as we closed in on the final days of the 2017 Legislative Session in Frankfort. A flurry of bills were sent to Governor Matt Bevin's desk this week, highlighted by measures to empower our Kentucky teachers and create better learning environments for our Kentucky students.

One of our top priorities in the Senate this session was Senate Bill (SB) 1, which is designed to "let teachers teach" by mirroring the Federal "Every Student Succeeds Act" to foster state and local decision making by our valued educators. The House passed SB 1 unanimously this week with a few minor changes. The Senate plans to accept those changes and send SB 1 to Governor Bevin to be signed into law. Senate Bill 1 will bring sweeping changes to reform education in our Commonwealth, and we are confident those changes will improve our schools for many years to come.

Another education bill that was sent to the Governor's desk this week was House Bill (HB) 520, which authorizes the establishment of charter schools in Kentucky. Passage of a charter schools bill has been a priority in the Senate for the past several sessions, and we were pleased to finally see its passage with help from our colleagues in the new House Majority.

With the passage of HB 520, Kentucky became the 44th state in the U.S. to pass a bill that permits school choice. None of the previous 43 states that have enacted charter school legislation have repealed it, which gives added confidence that this was the right move for Kentucky. In order for a charter school to be established, it first must be authorized by a local school board.

Complementing the HB 520, we also sent HB 471 to Governor Bevin, which is the funding mechanism for charter schools. It is important to note that HB 471 has been crafted to support, not burden school district funding systems. Based on projected enrollment, a school district would send its request for funding to the Kentucky Department of Education. That district would include charter school enrollment figures as well. A "base" guarantee of funding that is sent to a school district would include adjustments for percentages of students who are at-risk, special education, limited English proficient, home/hospital, plus transportation costs. The formula also requires local fair share by each school district based on taxable property there.

The school district develops and uses an allocation model that promotes educational equalization, equity, and adequacy based on the needs of its schools and distributes allocations to each School Based Decision-Making Council. For charters, our funding legislation allows the school district to receive state funds and to allocate a portion of the funds to a charter school board of directors in its district using the same allocation model the district would use if the school were one of its own. No siphoning away; funds follow the students wherever they are. In fact, the students, teachers, and other staff in the charter would still be from the community.

Also, before sending funds to the school, the school district is allowed to keep the following amounts:

- Three percent of the allocation to the charter for administrative purposes.

- Amounts for transportation, capital outlay, debt service, and extra local tax raised that was matched by the state.

In other words, a school district would continue to receive funds as it always has to serve its students, and a charter school would receive even less. Funding to a charter school would be forwarded by the district to the school as though the school were its own, minus three percent and other amounts as listed above. So the district would actually keep a percentage of the funds for students they were no longer serving. Regardless, the local school board would have oversight of the charter school's funding and implementation of its approved plans.

Finally, a school board could deny a charter application if the applicant did not adequately plan to serve a school district's targeted population. Although the applicant could appeal to the state board, it would be highly unlikely that the state board would overturn a local board's decision to use its funding to meet the needs of its underserved population.

We value our public schools, our teachers, and our students. It is important to realize that charter schools were not designed to take anything away from our existing system but to provide new opportunities for our students at struggling schools.

Several other important bills moved quickly though the legislative process this week and were delivered to the Governor for his signature:

- Senate Bill 11 lifts Kentucky's nuclear moratorium to expand our state's energy portfolio;

- Senate Bill 75 updates the state's outdated campaign contribution laws that have previously encouraged "dark money" and discouraged free speech;

- Senate Bill 89 removes barriers in health care plans to allow patients to access smoking cessation treatments;

- Senate Bill 91, also known as "Tim's Law," is aimed at helping families of those with severe mental illness ensure that individual receives proper outpatient treatment;

- Senate Bill 107, setting up a due process to remove members from dysfunctional or non-compliant state boards, such as university boards;

- Senate Bill 120, comprehensive justice reform that also provides methods for reentry and employment access;

- Senate Bill 136, which offers in-state tuition for all active members of the Kentucky National Guard whether or not they are official residents;

- Senate Bill 159, requiring all public high school students to pass a civics test in order to receive a regular diploma;

- Senate Bill 195, aligning the juvenile criminal record expungement process with that of last year's House Bill 40, to allow for expungement of certain juvenile crimes;

- And Senate Bill 236, allowing for more thorough background checks on potential child care providers.

Multiple House bills also headed to the Governor's desk for his signature:

- House Bill 38, known as the "Playground Protection Act," prohibits sex offender registrants from being on the grounds of a publicly owned playground without explicit permission from a local legislative body;

- House Bill 410 allows citizens to obtain a "voluntary travel ID" that complies with federal security standards aligning with military bases and domestic flight travel, and does not allow for the retaining of birth certificate information;

- And House Bill 156 promotes outdoor recreation and tourism development by establishing the Kentucky Mountain Regional Recreation Authority, while its committee substitute creates the Kentucky Coal Fields Endowment Authority to aid in economic development in coal-based counties.

Wednesday, March 15, marked Day 28 of the 2017 Session of the Kentucky General Assembly. The Senate is adjourned until March 29 and this brief period of time is known as the "veto period," during which Governor Bevin can veto any legislation that comes to his desk. When we return on March 29, however, the General Assembly has the power to override the Governor's vetoes, as long as the legislation was passed before the beginning of the veto period.

We will still likely pass a few more bills on March 29 and 30, so I encourage you to continue watching the movement of legislation. It is an honor to serve you in Frankfort, and I look forward to continue to work on your behalf in the General Assembly.

If you have any questions or comments about these issues or any other public policy issue, please call me toll-free at 1-800-372-7181 or email me at Steve.West@LRC.ky.gov. You can also review the Legislature's work online at www.lrc.ky.gov.

The training includes water treatment and distribution system, asset management, rate analysis, Kentucky Infrastructure Authority (KIA) loan portfolio servicing and cost of service.

"I am pleased to hear the ARC approved this grant for a much-needed overhaul of water and wastewater management in Eastern Kentucky," said Senate President Robert Stivers.

Kentucky's Trophy Bass Program opens for the season

Herald Report

When Murray resident Austin Gruner caught an 8.2-ounce largemouth bass bulging with developing eggs from Kentucky Lake on February 10, he didn't keep it.

HERALD

Austin Gruner.

Instead, Gruner took his trophy to Fisherman's Headquarters in Benton, where employees held it for pick up by a Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources hatchery truck.

"Austin's fish is the first donation we've received this year for the department's Trophy Bass Propagation Program," said Jeff Ross, assistant director of fisheries for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife. "We're seeking additional donations of big bass caught in other lakes so we can increase the potential for oversized largemouths in Kentucky's waters."

Trophy bass donated to the program go to Pfeiffer Fish Hatchery near Frankfort for spawning. The department stocks the trophy offspring to the original lake and select other lakes in fall.

Anglers really don't lose their trophy. Kentucky Fish and Wildlife gives participants professionally mounted, fiberglass reproductions of their fish in return for the donation. Photos of the four bass donated in 2016 – the inaugural season of the program – are viewable online at www.fw.ky.gov by

Transportation crews to begin treating for noxious weeds

Herald Report

Kentucky Transportation Cabinet crews will begin treating for noxious and nuisance weeds throughout the state this month. The treatments aid in controlling the spread of undesirable plants along state highway rights of way.

The cabinet, in accordance with KRS 176.051, targets Johnsongrass, Giant foxtail, Canada thistle, Nodding thistle, Common teasel, Multiflora rose,

Amur honeysuckle, Poison hemlock, Marestail, Japanese knotweed and Kudzu. Left uncontrolled, noxious weeds can grow so large that they interfere with a driver's line of vision on highways. They can also damage pavement and embankments and clog ditches, causing drainage problems. Noxious weeds often invade and destroy the roadside turf grass, leaving these areas vulnerable to erosion. They can also smother native plants through rapid reproduction and long-term persistence.

Motorists are reminded to use extra caution when crews spraying for weeds are out on the roadways.

Property owners can learn more about specific treatments in their areas by contacting their district highway office.

$200,000 Appalachian Regional Commission grant to assist 54 Kentucky counties

Herald Report

"This grant is yet another critical step in ensuring our current infrastructure needs are addressed in the Appalachian regional counties."

ARC funding will be further utilized to employ a full-time consultant to provide technical assistance and training to drinking water and wastewater operations throughout the entire contract period. It is anticipated that 80 public water utilities and 100 wastewater utilities will receive on-site technical assistance and training during the project period. In addition, 82 KIA water and wastewater borrowers will be served and improved through direct consultation and training as well.

The ARC program provides assistance for residential infrastructure, water supply and wastewater treatment projects to assist in alleviating environmental issues and public health concerns while improving the quality of life for local residents.

Treasures by Wilma Erwin

Today's Treasures is by a cousin, Laura. She wrote about some old time memories. I think you will enjoy.

On a stroll down memory lane today, I am letting my mind go back to when I was a young girl at home. My mother worked hard to see that my sisters and I had the necessities of life. We, of course, had chores to do but that was "just what you did back then." We didn't need to argue with each other because we knew our jobs and did them.

One week I would be assigned a job and the next week it would be a different one. The rotation went very well except for the one about Katie. We didn't really like that one. I will tell you that the name was given, so no one but our family knew what we were talking about. For you who had a nice bathroom, you may not relate to this. Katie was our chamber pot (in other words our inside toilet). If we had company and it started to get dark, Mom might say to the one whose turn it was, "Have you got Katie in?"

This sounded like a polite way to get the chore done and the company didn't know what was being done. To all you named Katie, please don't get offended. The name was special. Who would ever guess who Katie was? My middle name is what a lot of people call their old cows. No, I am not going to tell you what it is. Please be content to call me Laura.

Fun Memories: I like to visit often is when we would get to go out in the country and play in the woods. Mom knew a place with big rocks and we could slide down them. We would spend some time picking up nuts and probably ate more than we brought home. We had a wonderful day with family.

Did you ever sit in a ditch and be very quiet so you wouldn't scare a snipe away. We were so excited because we were going snipe hunting. We walked down the road singing "A Sniping We Will Go." Mom and a friend, whose daughter went along, just walked behind us with a big smile. Older people would just grin as we passed by their house. It rained and we still sat quietly, in the ditch, and held our bags so they could shoo the snipe into the bag. After a while our parents came back and took us home. It was a long hour and we didn't appreciate it much then, but the memories from that night always bring a smile and secretly we want to take our kids to experience snipe hunting. If you don't know about snipe hunting, find an older person and let them tell you all about it. Maybe they would even like to take you!

Have you ever made a cemetery for sow-bugs? Sow-bugs or pill bugs are only 1/4 to 1/2 inch long. They are dark gray or black and small. Have you ever tried to do a dance in a barn where barb wire is rolled up and you landed on it?

Have you gotten together with a few more kids to go swim in the creek? Have you ever spent the day fishing (or playing around the water while someone else is trying to fish)? I myself have attended many sow-bug funerals. I have danced in the barn and had a few stings from the experience. I have spent many afternoons at the ford swimming. I have been fishing and I have played while others tried to fish. After becoming an adult have you visited friends, drank some coffee, tea or lemonade, maybe even took a walk and looked at the beauty of nature, or had a nice afternoon drive? Just being content! We have had contented days in our youth and can keep experiencing them. Our mindset is the key. This brings me to a thought about Hebrews 13:5, Let your conversation be without covetousness; and be content with such things as ye have: for he hath said, I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee. That my friends is Great Contentment. Blessings on finding it!

Card of Thanks

The family of Bruce Nelson Evans wish to convey our sincerest gratitude to everyone who assisted during our time of sickness and loss. We were overwhelmed with every expression of love from cards and calls received, those who delivered food to the house, sent flowers, came to the viewing and attended his funeral.

To the Vanceburg nursing home and SOMC staff and doctors who showed him tender loving care, we can't thank you enough. To the Hospice of Hope, Kenton Station, every nurse and physician extended their best efforts to care for Dad and our family. No tiny detail was left unattended and we will forever be grateful!

To family and friends who visited him in the hospital, nursing home and hospice - many who provided precious unforgettable memories (one brought a quilt to keep him warm) you made those bleak days so much brighter!

Diane Caseman, Tim Evans, and Bradley Stone, thank you for the beautiful music you shared at the funeral. To Rev. Danny and Wanda Overton, it meant so much that you traveled so far to be with us. Your memories of Dad were personal and heartfelt.

To Reverends Ed and Dottie Stepp, your visits and words of encouragement helped Dad so much and were such a blessing to our family. We received great comfort from your loving care. To the pallbearers, we thank each one of you! To the many churches in the community who held us up in prayer - we felt your love and the strength of God's presence!

To the Vanceburg Church of God, where do we begin? You certainly know how to take care of your own! Dickerson Funeral Home, you treated us like we were family. We were so impressed by how caring and professionally you took care of us. Dennis Brown, thank you so much for your assistance with the CDs.

To the Lewis County Sheriff's Department - friends and family who had traveled from out of town could not believe the respect you gave to the funeral procession. They said they had never seen anything like that before. We especially thank our Heavenly Father for allowing us to have Dad as long as we did.

Letter From Heaven

Author Unknown
When tomorrow starts without me and I'm not here to see
If the sun should rise and find your eyes filled with tears for me.
I wish so much you wouldn't cry the way you did today,
While thinking of the things we didn't get to say.
I know how much you love me, as much as I love you,
And each time you think of me, I know you miss me too.
When tomorrow starts without me, don't think we're far apart,
For every time you think of me, I'm right there in your heart.

Card of Thanks

Our hearts are full of gratitude when we say many thanks to family members, friends, and neighbors for all acts of kindness and sympathy: food, flowers, cards, visits, and kind words spoken to our family regarding the recent passing of a wonderful husband, father, grandfather, great-grandfather, friend, and disciple of the Lord, Donald Edington.

We want to express special appreciation to Pastor Lyle Parker and Clarksburg Christian Church for all the love, support, and help during this time.

Thanks to Gaydos Funeral Home for their professional arrangements and caring service.

Don will always be remembered for his humble love of life and passion for friends, family, and church.

The Don Edington Family

Pastor's Corner

Rev. David Glockner

"I assure you, brothers, God's action in our midst. We learn of God's gracious call. We learn that responding is difficult. But God always leads us along – teaching us, seeking us out, and sometimes finding us out. The two Testaments and the long tradition in the church assures us that God is near and that He cares for us.

We have a saying that experience is the best teacher. We know that experiences pile up as years pile up. When we wish to learn something we turn to people who have experience in that field. In the Church we find thousands of years of experience of how people have encountered God and how they have understood life. The Old Testament and the New Testament witness to God's life among us. These Testaments witness to humanity's awakening to

We are the recipients of all this experience. If we open our eyes and our ears we will experience God's loving presence. If we open our minds and our hearts we will respond to His call. There is no greater lesson we could learn.

Two hurt in accident involving UTV

By Dennis K. Brown

Two men were taken to the hospital following an accident involving a utility task vehicle (UTV) on Ky. Rt. 8 at Black Oak.

Deputy Eric Poynter said the accident happened Thursday night just west of Sand Branch Road on Ky. Rt. 8.

He said a 2013 Dodge Charger SE, operated by Kimberly Prater of Vanceburg, was traveling east on the roadway when she saw a Polaris ATV stopped in the roadway ahead of her.

Poynter said Prater stopped her vehicle in the roadway and it was struck in the rear by a Honda Pioneer 1000 UTV operated by Jeremy Wilburn of Vanceburg.

Poynter said Wilburn and Jerry Bivens, a passenger on the UTV, were taken to Flemingsburg Hospital in Flemingsburg by Portsmouth Ambulance for treatment.

Another passenger on the UTV, Charlene Wilburn, was not injured, Poynter said, adding that Prater was also not hurt.

Poynter, who is continuing the investigation into the incident, said charges are pending.

He was assisted at the scene by Vanceburg Police Officer Mike Ginn, Portsmouth Ambulance, and Black Oak Fire and Rescue.

and will adjust signage and traffic control as needed around the project area.

Ruckel urges motorists in the area to allow extra time in traveling to and from Garrison and to exercise added caution, especially around times that school buses will be operating.

"Safety of our citizens and our children is our primary concern," Ruckel said. "Contractors will be working to complete this project as quickly as possible to reopen traffic on Ky. Rt. 8 later this year."

Magistrates recently questioned the possibility of some improvements to Kinney Road because of increased traffic on that roadway between Ky. Rt. 8 and the AA Highway during the bridge construction.

Ruckel said he had requested possibly widening areas of that portion of Kinney Road to improve shoulders.

State Representative Rocky Adkins said he is also aware of the concerns and had talked with state officials to address the matter.

"It is a priority to maintain and have an adequate detour for the traveling public as a new bridge is being constructed," Adkins said.

"The project to replace this aging bridge is much needed and once completed will be a great asset to the community," he added.

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet awarded a low-bid, $4,395,340.88 contract to Bush and Burchett Inc. for the project.

CSX Transportation has placed barriers along their railroad tracks to deter traffic from traveling on their right-of-way adjacent to the project area.

Road work schedules are subject to change depending on weather conditions. Motorists are asked to heed all warning signs, slow down in work zones and remain aware of workers and construction equipment when traveling.

Weddington recognized several students who are members of the Lewis County Middle School Academic Team and presented certificates for their accomplishments.

Board Members approved reimbursing bus drivers for electric if they connect bus diesel engine block heaters to their home outlets.

Weddington said the reimbursement is based on the number of days the temperature dips to a certain point.

Members approved the request at $10 per driver.

Members discussed a bid for lawn mowing services for sites around the district.

Approval was given to Weddington to negotiate mowing services with Brewer Lawn Service to mow at Garrison and Tollesboro elementary schools.

Board members discussed non-resident contracts for neighboring school districts and approved the recommendations for Carter County and Mason County schools.

Members gave approval for family medical leave for an employee through the remainder of this school year and approved an itemized list of reimbursement expenses related to the Central Elementary School project.

The board approved a mailing address change for the board office with the temporary relocation to the finance office while the Central Elementary Project is going on.

The board approved field trips for FBLA to state competition in Louisville and a trip to the Leadership and Skills Conference in Louisville for Skills USA.

Weddington reported the certified resignation of Crystal Gayle Reeder, a teacher at LCMS and the extra duty hire of Walt Taylor as head baseball coach at LCHS.

Members entered closed session for deliberations on the future acquisition or sale of real property.

State law allows closed sessions for such deliberations only when publicity would be likely to affect the value of a specific piece of property to be acquired for public use or sold by a public agency.

No action was taken when members returned to open session.

velop a fiber-based, broadband infrastructure to provide high-speed Internet connectivity across Kentucky.

Kentucky will support the project through $30 million in state bonds and the federal government will provide $15 million to $20 million, according to information released at the time of the 2014 announcement.

"We are still identifying who owns some of the poles and are working with Windstream to finalize who will perform some of the pole replacements," Stone said.

"As mentioned at the last meeting, we are working on the Garrison Distribution Under-build project and the revised scope," Stone said.

"Bill Stamm, Bob Brown and I will meet with the design engineers to talk about the details of the project. We hope to re-bid this project in the next few months and start the work in the early spring," he added.

Stone said the annual true-up meeting with AEP will be in late April or early May.

"At the midway point it looked as if the true-up was going to be a push," he said. "However, with the mild winter, we are not sure what the true-up will be now."

The true-up amounts to the difference paid by the local utility company to purchase electricity and the actual cost of generating it. It is determined annually.

Stone told board members that Atmos Energy, the natural gas supplier, has been purchased by CenterPoint Energy.

"There should be no impact to us as we will continue to have the same representative calling on our location," he said.

Board members approved financial reports and the payment of bills before adjourning.

Sparks completes criminal justice training

By Dennis K. Brown

Mark Sparks has completed training with the Kentucky Department of Criminal Justice Basic Training Academy and joined 31 other law enforcement officers from agencies across the Commonwealth for a graduation on Friday.

Sparks and the other graduates of Class 480 completed 23 weeks of training, which consisted of 923 hours of recruit-level instruction.

Major training areas included homeland security, law offenses and procedures, vehicle operations, firearms, investigations, first aid and CPR, patrol procedures, orientation for new law enforcement families and the mechanics of arrest, restraint and control.

Sparks is a deputy with the Lewis County Sheriff's Department.

"We're proud of Deputy Sparks and his accomplishments at the academy," said Sheriff Johnny Bivens.

"Deputy Sparks is a valuable asset to our department and his background and training will serve us well," Bivens added.

Basic training is mandatory for Kentucky law enforcement officers to comply with the state's Peace Officer Professional Standards Act of 1998.

The Department of Criminal Justice Training provides basic training for city and county police officers, sheriffs' deputies, university police, airport police and others.

The agency also provides in-service and leadership training for Kentucky law enforcement officers and public safety dispatch training.

The Department of Criminal Justice Training is a state agency located on Eastern Kentucky University's campus. The agency is the first in the nation to be accredited under the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies' public safety training program designation.

DOCJT also earned accreditation through the International Association for Continuing Education and Training in 2013 – making it the nation's only law enforcement training academy to achieve dual accreditation by two independent accrediting organizations.
