Suspicious activity under investigation

By Dennis K. Brown

Sheriff's Lt. Bryon Walker says he is investigating a report of suspicious activity in the Garrison area.

Walker said the reported incident happened about Noon on Sunday, May 26.

He said someone reported a middle-age male had parked a brown sedan near a home at Garrison and proceeded to walk around the exterior of the home and take photographs.

Walker said the man reportedly told the homeowner he was representing an insurance company but the company he named is not the one insuring the property.

He said the man left after taking the photographs of the home and property.

No further activity was reported in relation with the incident but Walker said the matter is suspicious and warns area residents to be cautious of such activity.

He said there have been similar reports of this type of activity and adds the person could be collecting information to use in planning a theft or is checking to see if anyone is home.

Walker asks anyone having information, or who may have encountered this activity to contact the Lewis County Sheriff's Office at 606-

Warning siren test is Thursday

By Dennis K. Brown

A test of outdoor warning sirens in Lewis County will take place this Thursday, June 6, at 10:00 a.m.

The monthly test will also promote public awareness of four of the warning sirens located in Lewis County.

These sirens are located at Tollesboro, Vanceburg, Black Oak, and Firebrick. These areas are some of the heavier populated communities where more residents are able to hear the sirens, said Emergency Management Director George Sparks.

Each siren is capable of notifying the public in its area of a possible tornado or other imminent danger.

During the monthly test, the Alert Tone (siren) will sound for 30 seconds. In conjunction with the sirens, WKKS will be conducting a monthly Emergency Alert System (EAS) test. This will notify residents that the sirens and EAS are only tests. We will also continue to publish in THE Arrest made in theft of air conditioning units

By Dennis K. Brown

A Fleming County man has been arrested and charged in connection with the theft of two commercial air conditioning units from a home under construction.

Sheriff's Lt. Bryon Walker said the units were reported stolen from the home site on the AA Highway just east of Heron Hill about 1:00 a.m. Saturday, May 25.

Through his initial investigation, Walker said he collected information that led him to a residence on Montgomery Road at Garrison and from there to a suspect in Fleming County.

Walker said Eric Becker, 45, was arrested early Sunday morning, May 26, and charged with theft by unlawful taking over $500. He was lodged in the Lewis County Detention Center.

Walker said the air conditioning compressor units were recovered and will be returned to the homeowner.

Walker said the Goodman air conditioning units and the cost of reinstalling them will amount to several thousand dollars.

The case remains under investigation. Walker was assisted in the investigation by Deputy Taylor Martin.

Becker remains lodged in the Lewis County Detention Center in lieu of a $5,000 cash bond.

Retiring from teaching this year after 27 years is Merle Kidwell of Russell High School. Merle coached basketball at Lewis County High School and in 1997 won the 62nd District. He then went on to Russell High School, where he was successful in girls' basketball, winning several districts. Merle then took over the boys' program where they won the championship of the 63rd District. Merle was an outstanding guard for the Lewis County Lions making All-Ashland Area, All-Eastern Kentucky Conference, and Honorable Mention All-State. Merle is also a member of the 1,000 Point Club. Congrats!

K-K-K-K-K

This week's Lady Lions Vanceburg McDonald's "Player of the Week" is catcher, Lexie Sizemore. She has done a great job hitting and catching for one of the best pitchers in the state, 8th grader Emily Cole. Lexie showed senior leadership throughout the year.

Sympathy goes out this week to the family of Rhonda Warren, who passed away last week at St. Joseph Hospital. Rhonda babysat for a lot of children in Lewis County and was a very loving person. She leaves behind her husband, John Warren, who is a big sports fan; daughter, Christal; granddaughter, Kristin; and great-granddaughter, India. Rhonda will be sadly missed by her family and many friends in the area.

K-K-K-K-K

Congratulations to Lewis County High School Track member, Parker Stone. Parker capped off a big Senior year by qualifying for the State Tourney last Friday in Lexington. Because of an early deadline we will have the results of the State in next week's column. Parker also had a good year in football for the Lions from his defensive end position. He is the son of Larry and Mikel Stone of Vanceburg.

K-K-K-K-K

Sympathy goes out to the family of June Bentley, who passed away last week at the age of 91. Her son, Dale Bentley, was an outstanding basketball player of mine, when we went to the 16th Regional Semi-Finals two straight years. June was a fine Christian lady and will be sadly missed by her many friends and family in the community.

K-K-K-K-K

Congrats to my good friend, Kenny "Chubby" Scott, upon his retirement from teaching at Lewis County High School. Kenny was an assistant coach in girls' basketball and also helped the Lady Lions on the softball field. I always enjoyed "subbing" for him, as his classes were well organized. Enjoy your new venture in life.

Sportstumper: What local Lewis County Lions baseball pitcher at the high school went on to have a great college career at Wise University in Wise, Virginia?

Answer: Jeff Gilliam.

Financial Aid Tip of the Month

By Tim Ballard

Students and parents who need help paying for college may now save more money with Advantage Education Loans from KHESLC.

KHESLC has reduced its fixed interest rates to as low as 3.5 percent with auto payment. The exact rate will depend on creditworthiness and choice of payment plan.

The low-cost loans fill the gap between other financial aid a student receives and the total cost of education. Students should apply for all free aid, such as grants and scholarships, before applying for the Advantage Education Loan that has the best terms and conditions.

To qualify for an Advantage Loan, the student must:

- Be 18 by the date of application.
- Be a U.S. citizen or a non-citizen with a proof of residency card.
- Have an acceptable credit history or an approved cosigner.

To qualify for a parent Advantage Loan, the borrower must:

- Be the parent or stepparent of an undergraduate or graduate student, as determined by the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).
- Be a U.S. citizen or a non-citizen with a proof of residency card.
- Have an acceptable credit history or an approved cosigner.

Advantage Education Loans are available for students attending eligible colleges and universities.

Vegetable and Tobacco diseases to scout for:
Botrytis Gray Mold

Kentucky growers, both of vegetables and tobacco, should be on the lookout for Botrytis gray mold. This disease may occur in the field under humid conditions, but is most common in greenhouses or high tunnels. Botrytis gray mold can also affect numerous other herbaceous plants, including ornamentals. Prevention, early identification, and management will help reduce plant losses.

Here are the symptoms to look for, preventative tactics, and brief suggestions on how to treat crops once disease is confirmed.

Cause and disease development

Botrytis gray mold is caused by the fungal pathogen Botrytis cinerea. The pathogen overwinters in plant debris from the previous season or in soil. Botrytis spores are easily moved by wind, air currents, or water. All above-ground plant parts may become infected at any stage throughout the growing season, which can result in blighting, or fruit or plant loss. Botrytis gray mold is favored by high humidity. Once established the disease can spread rapidly in dense plantings.

Symptoms

Transplants may become infected prior to setting in the greenhouse or field. Wounded plant tissue is especially susceptible to Botrytis infection. Tan-brown lesions with an abundance of gray spores develop on leaves, stems, hanging blossoms, tobacco clippings, or fallen fruit (Figure 1). Stem lesions may expand to cause girdling, resulting in wilting or plant death. In tobacco, Botrytis may expand to the leaf veins, resulting in a darkened color and dying areas along the clipping wound. Infected fruit develop a grayish, soft rot, and the skin becomes discolored and cracked (Figure 2) with masses of gray, velvety spores. Occasionally, green fruit develop "ghost spots" that make fruit less desirable.

rot. Gray spores may also be seen on infected tissue. (Photo: Paul Bachi, University of Kentucky Research and Education Center)

Management
Cultural practices

- Remove plant debris, tobacco clippings, or weeds from the growing area.
- Remove and destroy heavily infected plants or plant parts.
- Mow, prune, clip, or trellis plants only when they are completely dry to minimize plant injury.

- Avoid overhead watering to reduce leaf wetness.
- Improve greenhouse ventilation to reduce humidity.
- Use recommended plant spacing to facilitate air movement and leaf drying.

Chemical approaches Vegetables

Start plants on a preventative fungicide program within 3 weeks of transplanting.

Greenhouses: Mancozeb, copper, and Botran are good early-season options. If gray mold has already begun to affect over 5% of the crop or first harvest is approaching, see ID-36, page 18 for 8 different chemical options with shorter preharvest intervals.

Field: Early season programs focusing on mancozeb, chlorothalonil, and copper should prevent initial infections. A number of effective chemical options exist for application later in the season (see ID-36, page 97 for sample program).

Tobacco

Greenhouses: Both mancozeb and the single labeled Quadris application for target spot management should help manage gray mold.

Field: Gray mold is rarely a problem in field plantings because of reduced humidity and improved plant spacing present in fields.

As always, all label recommendations must be followed when applying fungicides to crops. Pay close attention to pre-harvest intervals as well as tobacco contract obligations in the application of any fungicide.

For more information or a copy of ID-36 call the Lewis County Extension Office 796-2732

Grilling fruits and vegetables

Grills are so versatile for preparing a variety of foods including fruits and vegetables. Grilling fruits and vegetables has many benefits. You can add new flavors to some of your favorite dishes, increase your family's fruit and vegetable intake, and they typically take 10 minutes or less to cook. This summer, enjoy some of your favorite healthy dishes fresh from the grill.

Fruit and vegetables will be at their peak of freshness at different times throughout the growing season. Shop your local farmers market for the freshest offerings. Remember to arrive early to get the best selection as many popular produce items tend to sell out quickly at the market.

Stone fruits like peaches, cherries and plums do extremely well on the grill as do apples, strawberries and bananas. Select firm fruit that is not too ripe, as over-ripe fruit can end up too soft when grilled. You can enhance their flavor by applying olive oil or lemon juice before placing them on the grill.

Firm vegetables like corn on the cob and asparagus are easy to prepare on the grill. Place them right on your grill's cooking grid. Frequently turn vegetables to keep them from burning on the grill. You can grill smaller or chopped vegetables by wrapping them in aluminum foil and then placing them on the cooking grid. Season your vegetables with olive oil and fresh herbs in the aluminum foil. Grilled vegetables taste great as a side dish or dipped in hummus.

You can even involve your family in preparing fruit and vegetables for the grill. Preparing fruit or vegetable kabobs is a fun hands-on activity. Have your children help you chop up fresh fruits and vegetables of your choosing into large chunks. Place the chunks on a skewer and grill.

More information on grilling and nutrition is available at the Lewis County Extension office.

An Encouraging Word

Lessons from an Old Ballplayer

Retired baseball player Bill Buckner died Monday, May 27, 2019, at the age of 69. Buckner, who played for several major league teams in a career that lasted over 20 years, was known as a good fielder. However, he was a great hitter, amassing 2,715 hits in his career. Buckner won a batting title in 1980 and was named to the All-Star team in 1981.

However, in spite of all his accomplishments, Bill Buckner is best known for making a crucial error in the 1986 World Series. Playing first base, Buckner let a ground ball go under his glove and between his legs, allowing the winning run to score in Game six. Buckner's team, the Boston Red Sox, went on to lose Game seven, and the Series, to the New York Mets.

Many Boston fans were angry at Buckner for years to come. Some of them said terrible things about him. Some even said these things to his face. A lesser man might have lashed out in defense when faced with such verbal abuse.

However, Bill Buckner handled this adversity with class and dignity. He did not stoop to the level of those who mistreated him because he made an honest mistake. Years later, Boston fans softened up in their attitude toward Buckner. Most eventually embraced him as one of their sports heroes.

We can learn some valuable lessons from this old ballplayer. First, let us be gracious in defeat. Things won't always go our way. We need to try our best and then accept the results when misfortune occurs.

Second, don't allow one mistake to define you. Concentrate on the positive and put the past behind you. Everyone has their share of bad days. Look ahead to better times.

Third, be willing to forgive. Don't be bitter when people mistreat you – be better!

Fourth, never underestimate the positive influence you can have on others. People notice how you respond to adversity. If you handle it well, you can be a blessing to a lot of people who can learn from your example.

After Bill Buckner's death, his family released a statement that included these words – "Our hearts are broken but we are at peace knowing he is in the arms of his Lord and Savior Jesus Christ."

That explains Buckner's ability to persevere in the face of adversity and his willingness to forgive those who had mistreated him. He took seriously the forgiveness that he had received from Jesus, and he knew that it was his responsibility to offer forgiveness to those who had wronged him.

"Bear with each other and forgive one another if any of you has a grievance against someone. Forgive as the Lord forgave you." – Colossians 3:13.

Treasures by Wilma Erwin

Recently The Lord gave me a message about the blood. It began with the fact that we are made from the soil where God places minerals, gases and other things our bodies need. In other words we are still made from the dust as Adam and Eve. We are just allowed to eat things that come from the ground. These precious items come to the human digestive system and the blood begins its work.

Our blood performs many important functions within the body, including: Supply of oxygen to tissues (bound to hemoglobin, which is carried in red cells). Supply of nutrients such as glucose, amino acids, and fatty acids (dissolved in the blood or bound to plasma proteins (e.g., blood lipids). Removal of waste such as carbon dioxide, urea, and lactic acid. Immunological functions, including circulation of white blood cells, and detection of foreign material by antibodies. Coagulation, the response to a broken blood vessel, the conversion of blood from a liquid to a semi-solid gel to stop bleeding. Messenger functions, including the transport of hormones and the signaling of tissue damage. Regulation of core body temperature. Hydraulic functions.

Every day, all over the world, people need blood. This blood is donated by other humans because as of now there is no artificial blood (though they've tried for 60 years) that can come near doing what our blood does. They can send a fluid with oxygen into the body but not with our blood's capacities.

Donated blood can be polluted with HIV, hepatitis, and other dangerous elements! Would you want tainted blood to be given to you or a loved one. New problems could then arise.

Jesus died on the cross giving His body and His blood for us. His blood had to be pure, holy and not contaminated. He was the only one with blood with no spot or blemish. Oh, yeah! Pure blood that could be shed for the remission of sins for life is in the blood.

Babies only have about a cup of blood with adults only 10 to 11 pints. It doesn't take long to bleed to death. Life is in the blood! Leviticus 17:11 For the life of the flesh is in the blood: and I have given it to you upon the altar to make an atonement for your souls: for it is the blood that maketh an atonement for the soul.

1 Peter 1:18-20 For as much as ye know that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold, from your vain conversation received by tradition from your fathers; But with the precious blood of Christ, as of a lamb without blemish and without spot: Who verily was foreordained before the foundation of the world, but was manifest in these last times for you, Repentance, confession that Jesus is Lord and asking for His blood to redeem your soul from all sin makes you saved. You then invite Him into your heart to live. The Holy Spirit comes to advise you and if you walk with Jesus as a Christ-like person, the blood will get you into heaven.

Blessings on having Jesus' blood redeem your soul.

The Red Heifer

Numbers chapter 19 seems to be an unusual chapter in the Bible, because it's about a red heifer. What could be so important about this animal that it would require an entire chapter in the Scriptures?

Children or young people who have never been in the country much or around a farm or farmers may not know what a heifer is. It is a young cow that has never had a calf. And this particular bovine was of sacred importance to the Israelites.

Its ashes were used to prepare the water of purification for anyone in Israel who had touched a dead body or anything appertaining to a dead body.

According to Jewish tradition there would only be ten such rare animals in all of Israel's history. Why so few? Because the water of purification required the ashes of the burned heifer, burned according to the directions the Lord gave Moses in the law. This water of purification was sprinkled as the law instructed upon the unclean so they would be made clean and forgiven of sin. Only a tiny bit of ashes was used in each ceremony, so the ashes of one heifer would last a long time.

So far nine red heifers are known in the nation's history. This animal disappeared in Israel after the destruction of the temple. The tenth one is to be revealed in the era of the Messiah.

The Temple Institute inaugurated a Raise a Red Heifer in Israel Program. According to Adam Elivahu Berkowitz, the law restricts the importation of live cattle into Israel. So, the Temple Institute brought in frozen embryos of red Angus cattle and implanted them in Israeli domestic cows. The cows gave birth in the summer of 2018, and several calves have already been born. One of these red heifer calves has been certified by a board of rabbis as fulfilling all the requirements of Scripture. That means it must be without spot or blemish and have never had a yoke upon its neck or be carrying a calf. It can have no more than two white hairs on its whole body. Therefore, the rabbis are watching this calf to see if it remains qualified to fulfill the role of the biblical red heifer.

For over 2,000 years no such heifer has been available in Israel. Now it's possible, and it's supposed to usher in the era of the Messiah. The practitioners of Judaism, of course, are still looking for their Messiah to come. Christians are looking for Him, whom we believe to be Jesus Christ, to come again.

Lewis County Residents Regarding our Recycling Program

As you may already know Lewis County is currently collecting recyclable material, and we would like to pass these facts about recycling along to you.

To help with recycling, please rinse out any food cans and dirty bottles or jugs and remove any caps before recycling.

At this time, Lewis County is only capable of recycling the following items:

- Plastic #2 HDPE #2

* Milk jugs, household detergent bottles, bleach containers – all with lids removed. They should have a triangle with a 2 in it.

- 1 Plastic # PETE bottles

*Pop bottles, water bottles, clear plastic containers such as ketchup bottles and mayonnaise jars – all with caps removed. They should have a triangle with a 1 in it.

The only type of plastic we take is bottles with spouts on them with a #1 or #2 on them.

If an item is not on the above list, it is not currently being recycled by the County and should be disposed of in the trash. Items that are NOT recyclable include:

Massie often votes against national disaster relief – except when KY is impacted

By Phillip M. Bailey
The Courier Journal

US Rep. Thomas Massie may have blocked a bipartisan $19 billion bill to help millions of Americans hit by natural disasters, but he doesn't mind asking for help when his Kentucky congressional district faces Mother Nature.

The libertarian-leaning Republican congressman has a record of voting against emergency disaster funding measures for other states, such as Superstorm Sandy, which ripped up the east coast, in 2013, and Hurricane Harvey, the costliest tropical storm on record, in 2017.

But a Courier Journal review of the Kentucky federal delegation's messages to the White House show, since taking office in 2012, Massie has made multiple pleas for money when the state and his congressional district are impacted.

Four times since 2015, Massie has signed letters to the U.S. president with requests that have raked in roughly $56 million for the Bluegrass.

In a statement to the Courier Journal, the congressman defended his votes against disaster aid while requesting funding for Kentucky.

"While it's true that I've consistently voted against bloated spending bills and unbalanced budgets, it's also true that once these bills pass, it's my constituents who must bear the burden of the taxes and debts incurred by these bills," Massie said. "Therefore, it is with a clear conscience that I advocate for our congressional district's fair share, if those bills ultimately pass."

In an April 5 letter to President Donald Trump, Massie joined Kentucky's two senators and five other representatives in asking for relief after a series of storms struck the state.

"We ask for your timely consideration," the letter said. The funding was approved on April 17, according to reports.

Massie, however, scolded Democrats last week for putting the $19 billion measure — aimed at helping multiple states and territories, including Puerto Rico — on the fast track. He said Congress shouldn't approve spending bills when members aren't present, and he used a procedural move that blocked the bill from passing by unanimous consent.

"The point I made this week, by showing up for work when 99% of Congress did not, is that it's irresponsible to spend $19 billion without actually taking a vote," Massie said.

Massie's maneuver was condemned by Democrats and Republicans, who represented some of the states in need. Those lawmakers said his objection was an example of political posturing.

Fiscal conservatives, however, gave him kudos for standing up for the taxpayer against the common practice of Congress spending money without taking actual votes.

"Does anyone care about the Feds spending money we don't have anymore," Matt Kibbe, a nationally known libertarian activist, said in a tweet praising Massie. "By my count there's only a handful of legislators left speaking up for fiscal sanity."

Club for Growth, a conservative-leaning group, added in a tweet that if Speaker Nancy Pelosi, "wants to pass a multi-billion dollar spending bill, her minions are actually going to have to show up to vote."

Massie is often among a handful of House members who consistently object to emergency disaster help for other areas.

In January 2013, he raised concerns about doling out $9.7 billion to rebuild and repair residential areas devastated by Superstorm Sandy. He said the measure, "recklessly increases the national debt."

More than four years later, in September 2017, he voted against spending $7.8 billion to help Texas residents recovering from Hurricane Harvey. He again cited the national debt as a reason to oppose the measure.

The T.E.A.M. Center will be a vocational training center teaching the trades, as well as any other area for running a manufacturing company, such as administrative assistants, marketing, and human resources. The school will manufacture a product in order to teach working in an active manufacturing environment. The project has the support of the City of Vanceburg, Fiscal Court, State Representative Rocky Adkins, and Congressman Thomas Massie, as well as local industries.

Joni explained, as warmer weather is here, the Chamber projects involving Adventure Tourism will be moving forward. The Chamber is looking for anyone who has a passionate interest in working to promote all of the communities across the county to join in and work with the Chamber. Meetings are held the fourth Tuesday of each month at 5:15 p.m. at the Carter House. If you have any questions, please contact Joni at joni_pugh0250@yahoo.com.

With no further business, the Interagency meeting adjourned.

If you have not been able to attend a meeting for some time, please reconsider and join at our next meeting.

The council would love to hear what is happening within your agency and how they can help spread the word for you.

Anita Gilbert and Joni Pugh are working to update the Lewis County Resource Guide. If there are any changes on contact information or services within your organization, they would certainly appreciate an email to update information.

Family, business were factors in Representative Sims' decision

By Mary Ann Kearns
The Ledger Independent

It was a hard decision, one that he thought about for a good while before reaching a conclusion.

But in the end, it came down to family and commitments to business that helped Democrat State Rep. John Sims Jr. decide he would not run for reelection to the Kentucky House of Representative in 2020.

Sims announced his decision not to run for 70th District (Mason, Fleming, Bracken and Robertson) seat he now holds when election time rolls around next year during a legislative update in Maysville.

Sims and his wife, Jenny, are the parents of three daughters ages 8, 11 and 14, he said. And the demands of being a member of the General Assembly meant too much time away from his daughters, he said.

"I was missing a lot of things with them," Sims said. "Seems like I was running all the time."

"I'm going to go home and watch my girls grow up, go home and take care of the store and enjoy life a little bit," he said.

He also owns and operates the Dairy Queen in Flemingsburg and is in partnership on a farm.

Leaving Frankfort behind means more time to spend with his wife and children, more time to operate his business and more time to help out on the farm, he said.

Although he still has 20 months to serve until his term is complete, Sims said he wanted to put the information out there early enough so anyone interested in running for the office would have plenty of time to think it over.

"I wanted to do it the right way," he said.

Sims was elected to serve in 2015, following the retirement of longtime Representative Mike Denham. He took office in January 2016 and will complete his current term in December 2020.

Sims said he has enjoyed "99 percent" of his time in Frankfort, although like any job, there were "good days and bad days." He said even after he became part of the minority party, he managed to work with legislators across the aisle. He was the only Democrat who had bills passed in this year's legislative session.

tinue to receive grant approval for future application requests," he added.

The monthly tests is necessary to ensure the sirens are functioning properly and will operate if needed in an actual emergency situation.

The sirens are intended to warn people who are outdoors of a possible tornado or other threat.

The Homeland Security Grant Program plays an important role in the implementation of the National Preparedness System.

In the event of poor weather conditions, such as rain or overcast weather on days of scheduled testing, the siren tests will be canceled or rescheduled.

As a reminder, the county's monthly tornado siren test will occur on the first Thursday of each month at 10:00 a.m. for Tollesboro, Vanceburg, Black Oak and Firebrick.
